

Linedata Optima powers intelligent automation for new operational insights

Paris, Hong Kong, Boston, London and New York, 2 February 2018 – Linedata (Euronext Paris: LIN), the global solutions and outsourcing services provider to the investment management and credit finance industries, has launched an enhanced version of its business process management (BPM) tool, Linedata Optima, to unlock operational, fund and system data, giving unrivalled transparency and control.

This latest update introduces a new interactive dashboard, offering detailed visualization of real-time data and drill down capabilities. Fully auditable records can be visualized in multiple ways to aid process analysis and optimize resource allocation. This consolidated view provides a one stop shop to view key performance and risk metrics, analyze and visualize data to better manage the business.

Jon Trinder, Product Manager for Linedata Optima, said: “This new release empowers our clients with real-time insight that they can trust and act on, in an environment where the increasing regulation and data, demands ever greater risk and operational control in fund administration.”
