Linedata Announces Availability of Linedata Analytics Service and AMP modules on AWS Marketplace

Paris, Boston, New York, Toronto, London, October 4, 2023 – Linedata, (Euronext Paris: LIN), a global provider of asset management and credit technology, data, and services, announces today the availability of its cutting-edge solutions, Linedata Analytics Service, and a suite of AMP modules, Linedata Accumen, Linedata Model Management for the front office and NAV oversight, on AWS Marketplace. This strategic collaboration enhances Linedata's commitment to providing clients with flexible access to innovative capabilities while leveraging the power of Amazon Web Services (AWS).

The Linedata AWS collaboration demonstrates Linedata's focus on being an adaptable technology partner who empowers each client's next stage of growth. Mutual clients gain the flexibility to choose between fully cloud-based solutions or a hybrid approach, enabling them to adopt new cloud-native technology and solutions while transforming the rest of their ecosystem at their own pace.

They achieve this by combining Linedata's solutions with the robust capabilities of AWS cloud, gaining access to essential infrastructure and implementation services behind mission-critical software and the predictive and generative AI solutions offered by Linedata Analytics. This empowers clients with enhanced scalability, resiliency, accelerated time-to-market, Software as a Service (SAAS) options, and secure remote access, all crucial components of the adaptability needed for success in today's dynamic financial services landscape.

Timothée Raymond, Head of Innovation and Technology at Linedata, emphasizes, "AWS has been our preferred partner for cloud hosting solutions due to its unparalleled scalability and resilience. This collaboration brings significant business benefits to Linedata's clients, as we continue to put a premium on adaptability and providing diverse options for our clients to access new capabilities faster to improve their competitiveness and drive business."

For Linedata as well as new clients, the AWS Marketplace integration offers compelling advantages, including showcase development environments and quick customer pilots. The AWS Marketplace mechanism enables mutual AWS customers to utilize their existing AWS spend to purchase Linedata solutions, streamlining deal management and accelerating deployment times without the need to overhaul existing infrastructure.

Linedata's solutions are now easily discoverable via AWS Marketplace, making them accessible to a broader audience, whether they are hosted or deployed clients.
